

In conjunction with the 23rd International Conference on Microelectronics ICM'2011

The IEEE Tunisia CAS Chapter organizes

The 1st IC DESIGN STUDENT CONTEST

On Design of Analog, Digital, Mixed and RF Integrated Circuits

21 December 2011, Hammamet, Tunisia

Organizing Committee

Pr. Mourad Loulou, IEEE CAS TN Chapter Chair
Dr. Hassene Mnif, IEEE CAS TN Chapter Treasurer
Dr. Mourad Fakhfakh, IEEE CEDA TN Chapter Chair

Scientific Committee

Pr. Hervé Barthelemy, France
Pr. Mohammed Ismail, USA
Pr. Sofiene Tahar, Canada
Pr. Mourad Loulou, Tunisia
Dr. Hassene Mnif, Tunisia
Dr. Mourad Fakhfakh, Tunisia

Objectives: The aim of this contest is to promote students' interests in the integrated circuit design fields and enhance their practical hardware implementation skills by providing competition between graduate and undergraduate students. The contest will be organized by the the IEEE Tunisia CAS Chapter in collaboration with the IEEE CEDA Tunisia Chapter .

Awards: Papers will be selected by a committee of international experts in the IC design field. The three best papers will be awarded by the IEEE Tunisia CAS Chapter. Further, the first authors of all selected works will be offered a free IEEE and CAS society registration for 2012. Besides, all selected papers will be included in the ICM 2011 proceeding and published in the IEEE Xplore database.

Submission: Interested students will have to submit an extended abstract (2 pages including figures to be sent to hassene.mnif@ieee.org) that describes the competition proposal. After a pre-contest selection, authors of the selected papers will have to submit an extended version of their works (4 pages/IEEE Template). The first author of each selected work will be offered one free day participation to ICM conference (www.ieee-icm.com) to present his paper in front of a jury.

Important dates:

November 11: contribution submission
November 18: notification of acceptance
November 30: submission of the extended contribution
December 21: final contest session and award ceremony

For further information:

Email: hassene.mnif@ieee.org

Phone: +216 96 50 23 81